KESAMAAN | INDIA-INDONESIA

Patishapta Pitha from West Bengal and Dadar Gulung from Java Sweet Delicacy from Both Regions

Do you know that India and Indonesia have a similar traditional cake? Both of Patishapta Pitha and Dadar Gulung are basically a sweet crepes or pancake with coconut-jaggery (palm sugar) filling.

Patishapta Pitha is a traditional and most popular Bengali sweet recipe made during the auspicious occasion of Poush Parbon (Makar Sankranti). Bengali patishapta pitha is basically an eggless crepe made with rice flour, maida (all purpose flour) semolina and stuffed with coconut-nolen gur (jaggery) filling.

Dadar Gulung is one of the popular snacks in Indonesia, especially in Java. In Indonesian, dadar literally means "omelette" or "pancake" while gulung means "to roll". The pancake usually has a green colour, which is acquired from daun suji or pandan leaves. It is a green-coloured folded pancake made of rice flour, filled with grated coconut and palm sugar.

While both Dadar Gulung and Patishapta Pitha may share similar ingredients, such as coconut and jaggery, they might differ in the specific spices used, the thickness of the batter or pancake, or the method of preparation, reflecting the culinary nuances of their respective regions.

Incredible India

West Bengal

West Bengal, located in eastern India, is the fourth-most populous and thirteenth-largest state in the country. It borders Bangladesh, Nepal, Bhutan, Jharkhand, Odisha, Bihar, Sikkim, and Assam. The state's capital is Kolkata and includes the Darjeeling Himalayan hill region, Ganges delta, Rarh region, Sunderbans, and Bay of Bengal.

How to Reach

West Bengal is well-connected to major destinations across India and the world through air, train, and road. Major airports include Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose International Airport in Kolkata, Balurghat Airport, and Bagdogra Domestic Airport. Railways offer high-speed, express, and passenger trains, with main stations in Kolkata. The state also has an extensive road network, connecting major cities like Bihar, Jharkhand, Orissa, and neighboring states like Bangladesh, Nepal, and Bhutan.

Places of Interest

Known for its rich culture and heritage, West Bengal is a popular tourist destination in India that draws tourists from around the globe. With the natural beauty, serene seashores, spectacular architecture, and mouth-watering delicacies, West Bengal is one of India's best places to visit. The places of interest in this state include Darjeeling, Kolkata, Siliguri, Sunderbans, Kalimpong, Kurseong, etc.

Festivals

Throughout the Bengali calendar, many festivals are celebrated in the state. Durga Puja is solemnized as perhaps the most significant of all celebrations. Since 1947, it has evolved into a glamorous carnival, with people from diverse religious and ethnic backgrounds participating. Other festivals include Dashain, Dusshera, Holi, Diwali, Jamai Sasthi, and Poush Mela. Tarakeswar Yatra, held between July and August, is the longest and largest Mela with nearly 10 million devotees offering holy Ganga water to Lord Shiva.

Cuisines

Bengali cuisine is characterized by rice and fish, with a saying stating "fish and rice make a Bengali". Fish-based dishes include hilsa, eggs, chicken, mutton, and shrimp. Rural areas enjoy Panta bhat, rice soaked overnight in water with onion and green chili. Common spices include cumin, ajmoda, bay leaf, mustard, ginger, green chillies, and turmeric. Sweets are a significant part of Bengali diet and social ceremonies. Distinctive sweetmeats from milk products, such as rashogolla, chomchom, kalojam, and sondesh, are made. Specialties like pitha are prepared during winter and festivals. Popular street foods include aloor chop, beguni, kati roll, badam makha, and phuchka.

Handicrafts

West Bengal is renowned globally for its expertise in art and craft, including architectural splendors, woodwork, terracotta, paintings, textiles, pottery, brass, copperware, embroidery, tapestry, hand looms, muslin and silk artistry, wood carving, and cane works. These handicrafts, primarily produced in West Bengal's villages, have been the backbone of the rural economy.

INDIAN KITCHEN

Begun Bhaja

Begun Bhaja, also known as Baingan Bhaja, are crispy and tender eggplant fries that are delicious to enjoy as a snack, side or appetizer. Thin slices of aubergines are dusted with seasonings and rice flour, then pan fried in mustard oil and served as a side with dal rice or khichdi or roti.

Here you'll find step-by-step instructions with photos to make this classic Bengali style Begun Bhaja recipe.

Ingredients

- Eggplant
- Mustard oil
- Turmeric powder
- Kashmiri red chili powder
- Rice flour
- Sugar
- Salt

Methods:

- Wash a large eggplant and wipe it dry with a kitchen towel. Discard 1 inch of the top green stalk and cut it into 2 cm thick slices.
- Note – Keep the eggplant slices soaked in water until ready to use; otherwise, they will turn black from oxidation. The best thing to do is to cut the eggplant just before you are ready to cook it.
- Wipe the slices dry with a kitchen towel if they are soaked in water to remove any excess water.
- Mix turmeric powder, Kashmiri red chili powder, rice flour, sugar, and salt on a shallow plate.
- Press the eggplant slices in the rice flour mixture to coat them well from both sides.
- Heat 2-3 tablespoon of mustard oil in a frying pan over medium-high heat.
- Once the oil is hot, arrange the eggplant slices on the pan in a single layer and shallow fry for 2-3 minutes until golden brown.
- Flip and cook for 2-3 minutes on the other side.
- Transfer the fried eggplant to a plate lined with paper tissues to remove the extra oil. Serve hot.
- Fry the remaining slices in the same manner
